Fall 2 2019 - Advanced Courses for Specific Purposes

Current Events (for level 500, 600 or 700)

Are you interested in what's going on locally, domestically, globally? If you are, this class will help you to improve all your language skills—reading, speaking, listening, and writing—by concentrating on one or more current topics, including ones selected by you and your classmates. You will read newspaper and magazine stories on these topics, listen to and watch news reports, and visit web sites. You will keep a personal blog on the topics that will be used to guide classroom discussion and your projects. As part of the course, you will also learn how to interview and report news events (video), as well as write opinion columns, reviews and feature articles (newsletter). Throughout the course, you will work on editing the news videos you record and, at the end of the course, we will select your best videos and post them onto the Language Institute's official YouTube channel.

IELTS Preparation Plus (for level 500, 600 or 700)

This course is designed to prepare students for the IELTS exam. There will be an overview of what to expect on the exam and a focus on effective techniques for completing the reading, writing, listening and speaking sections. Students will also take practice tests and will get individual feedback and advice from the instructor.

Team Leadership (for level 500, 600 or 700)

In this course, you will focus on three areas: project management, leadership skills and training and team building. The ultimate goal of the course is for students to develop skills in project management, leadership and team building and use those skills in creating clubs for students at the Language Institute to participate in. Students will create and run a club. You will learn the skills necessary in project management including recruiting members, creating a charter/vision for the club, holding meetings and implementing activities for the club. Through teamwork, you will develop your leadership and collaboration skills.

Writing More Creatively: Using Literary Devices (for level 600 or 700)

The purpose of this course will be to develop skills for how to be a more creative writer. First, you will learn to define and identify literary devices. You will work on identifying these devices in various contexts, such as in poems, songs, short stories, news articles, research papers, and more. After successfully identifying and understanding each device, you will work on using them. You will apply these devices to all different types of writing, from developing creative writing (like poems) all the way to enhancing introductions for academic papers. This course is considered an integrated skills course; you will be expected to listen, speak, read, and write.
